herself going on fighting for the battle of justice and civil liberty, here and abroad. In 1910-1911 she participated in the Woman's Suffrage Movement in England. In 1913 she was a delegate to the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance in Budapest and to the International Peace Conference at The Hague. Clara Bewick Colby who fought so hard for woman's suffrage died in 1916 at the age of seventy, still without a right to vote. Ironically, four years after her death, women did get the right to vote with the 19th Amendment. Thank you.

PRESIDENT: Thank you. The Chair would like to recognize that 45 members of the Association of American University of Women from Peru, Crete and Omaha, McCook and Lincoln are our guests this morning in the North balcony and we would like to welcome you to the Legislature. Thank you. Does the Clerk have anything on the desk for correction?

CLERK: I have no corrections this morning, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT: Messages, reports and announcements.

CLERK: Mr. President, I have two communications from the Governor addressed to the Clerk. (Read communications Re: LB 383, 29, 71, 191 as found on pages 788-789 of the Legislative Journal.)

Mr. President, the Executive Board reports that LB 620 has been rereferred from the Judiciary Committee to the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee.

I have an Attorney General's opinion addressed to Senator Kilgarin regarding LB 89 and a second to Senator Beutler regarding LB 358, Mr. President. (See pages 789-793 of the Legislative Journal.)

SENATOR VICKERS: Mr. President, I think I said something the other day about us wasting a lot of time in here, but I will take that all back if we waste it like this. Thanks to everybody.

PRESIDENT: We could use that boy at Ogallala at the Front Street show this summer. Senator Vickers will spend the rest of the session in the dungeon for that unusual suspension of the rules. We have a bill to introduce this morning.

CLERK: Mr. President, Senator Barrett would move for the introduction of new bills by the Business and Labor Committee pursuant to Rule 5, Section 4 (c) 2. They are request 967 and 968.

PRESIDENT: The Chair recognizes Senator Barrett. We will
